

Romaine A. Wright, M.S. is an experienced trainer and consultant with expertise in talent management and professional development. With two degrees in psychology, multiple instructor certifications, a certificate in DEI, and over 15 years of experience coaching others, Romaine has cultivated her ability to inspire, to motivate, and to propel others into personal and professional success. Her deep understanding of human behavior and an innate instinct about people help her develop engaging and thought-provoking workshops that challenge ordinary thinking while providing strategies that promote empathy, unity and positive social change. Whether through her work, volunteering, or daily interactions with others, Romaine's passion for improving workplace dynamics and building effective leaders shines through.

By day, Romaine facilitates employee learning & development at Charles River Laboratories and provides training workshops and coaching services through her company, Just Wright Consulting, LLC. In her free time she enjoys traveling, dancing, movies, arts & crafts, and spending time with close family and friends.
